Views in Office 2010

In Microsoft Word there are a number of ways that you can view your document (Bradley). To see the views available, click the View Tab on the Ribbon or hover over the icons in the lower right portion of your screen. Word 2010 provides the following view formats: Print Layout, Full Screen Reading, Web Layout, Outline, and Draft. There are also options to view documents side by side, in a new window, arrange all open documents, and split the view. In order maximize your potential use of Word 2010, it is important to understand and utilize these views. To begin expanding our knowledge, four of these views will be explained.
